Memorial High School
East Paterson, New Jersey

All American high schools share basic physical similarities. They consist of walls, doors, and windows. Despite these obvious characteristics of conformity, we are aware of an intangible distinction existing at East Paterson Memorial . . . a dynamic fusion of goals.

Throughout our freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior years, the corridors have been vibrant with our mutual determination to master our pursuits both academically and culturally. This yearbook is our attempt to recapture the pleasures we encountered and the trials we endured in seeking success. In essence, it is a pictorial representation of what has been constructively accomplished. We realize that only we, the graduates of the Class of '68, can fully comprehend and thereby, warmly cherish the feeling of pride and satisfaction we have experienced now that our high school years are concluded. We, therefore, hope that you, who read and view the reflections of the Class of '68, will share the same satisfying sense of accomplishment that we feel.

In Dedication

We the class of 1968 — offer a fervent prayer . . . that God will keep our servicemen . . . in His loving care . . . we beg Him to watch over them . . . and guide them on the way . . . until victory is accomplished . . . and peace comes to our day . . . each one of us owes them a debt . . . because of them we're free . . . some of us may join them soon . . . far across the sea . . . until then the least we can do . . . is give them our support . . . let them know by word and deed . . . we will not sell them short . . . each red blooded American . . . regardless of race or creed . . . feels deeply for our servicemen . . . for their hearts ache and bleed . . . we the class of 1968 . . . offer a fervent prayer . . . that God will keep our servicemen . . . in His loving care.

Sincerely,
Ben Burroughs

Written for the 1968 graduating class of East Paterson Memorial High School

It is a painful, continual and difficult work to be done by kindness, by watching, by warning, by precept, and by praise, but above all — by example.

Superintendent of Schools

Edward L. Fandt, Ed. D.

My sincere congratulations to the members of the Class of 1968 upon the completion of this phase of their young lives.

The efforts and the measurable scholastic progress which have made the attainment of this goal possible are to be commended.

Ahead, lies the adult world which, in varying degrees, will present further challenges and demands for additional educational and intellectual growth.

Perhaps, even more vital and, as yet, really unmeasured are the qualities of responsibility, understanding of others, loyalty and integrity which will profoundly affect and influence the success of the varied careers that lie ahead for the graduates.

My fervent hope is that, under the guidance and tutelage of their parents and the educational staff, wholesome and sound attitudes have been nurtured which will prepare these young men and women to assume their roles as responsible citizens in a troubled and changing world.

Best wishes for the years ahead !

Vito A. Farese, Ph.D.

We may believe that our words — which we assume to express our principles — represent us more truly even than our actions, but to outsiders it is our actions that are more eloquent than the words.

As the members of the Class of 1968 face the challenges of the last third of the twentieth century, we teachers hope that the words of Henry Steele Commager serve as a lamp to light your tortuous path. For today, as no time in the past, it is action, not words, that will solve the many problems which beset the family of man.

We hope that the Class of 1968, in addition to acquiring a love of learning and an understanding of the important conceptions of our culture, have developed the traits of originality, courage, stability, and intelligence upon which creative action is based. Intelligent citizenship requires more than scholarship, technology, and the arts; it involves the ability and desire to develop self-understanding, to face and accept the truth, to exhibit compassion for others, and to be able to forsake a lesser for a greater good. To achieve this intelligent citizenship requires "action that are more eloquent than words."

Your friends and teachers labor in the certitude that in the future you will do your part to enhance the well-being of your fellow man. May you encounter only success, health, and happiness in your endeavors.

V. A. Farese, Ph.D.

Vice Principals

Education and hard work are the keys that open the door to the success each of you seek. The diploma you have earned is only a starting point for the future. The personality of the individual, his goals, ideals, and willingness to reject immediate gratification for future self-realization are all necessities if success and personal pleasure are to be gained.

The world we live in is complex, uncertain, dangerous, and constantly changing. We all take great pride in the accomplishments of our students. We feel that you, and all the youth of America, will show the way in bringing the understanding, peace, and justice everyone desires.

Sincere congratulations and best wishes for success in all your future endeavors.

Arthur Hardy
Vice-Principal

The completion of one's high school career produces a series of conflicting emotions. The immediate sense of joy at having cleared the hurdles and met the tests imposed by four strenuous years is quickly replaced by a sense of nostalgia at having completed a phase of one's life to which there can be no return. A deep sense of contentment "wars" with the pangs of regret at being about to leave a place associated with the more or less carefree days of adolescence.

Yet, this place has always been one which has been committed to preparation for this moment. It has never been isolated from the outside world. It has always been primarily concerned with preparing us for future endeavors. These years, filled with the activities of youth, have been a mere prelude for future positive action and commitment to constructive goals. Thus, we should find ourselves at this time filled with a strong feeling of accomplishment and with an even more powerful urge toward nurturing and furthering the tradition which we inherit.

"The library is not a shrine for the worship of books. It is not a temple where literary incense must be burned or where one's devotion to the bound book is expressed in ritual. It has arrested ten thousand lightning-flashes of genius, which, unless thus fixed and arrested, might have been as bright, but would have also been as quickly passing and perishing as the lightning. "The ROAD to A MAN'S success IS PAVED through his FRIENDSHIPS."
FELLOW CLASSMATES — VINCI '68

The time for simplicity is over . . . It is time for us to look back at the memories we shared together in high school and say farewell. These, to be sure, have been the best spent years of our lives. The events and circumstances of our years together have helped mold us into the individuals we are today. Some sad moments we faced but they cannot overshadow the fun and pleasures we shared together. Looking back on this time one becomes aware of the transience of high school years.

For us, the footprints on the sands of time have had their foundation here at Memorial. The world presents a challenge which we must meet. The ever-changing affairs of the world preclude the knowledge of where we will be ten years from this day. However, this certitude, will endure; wherever we are and whatever we are doing, the memories of the tradition and the spirit we held in our youth, will remain a stronghold in our hearts.

With this last thought in mind, I bid farewell. The privilege of serving as one of your leaders and of forming friendships with you has been a very sustaining experience in my life.

Grant, the pride and enthusiasm we felt as members of the Class of '68, will bolster and support us now as we search and explore life's mysteries in finding ourselves.

May God bless and protect each of you.

Sincerely,

Robert M. Vinci

Though our pathways sever
As we travel on life's road
In our hearts you'll live forever
When we think of times we spent together.
We will always stand together,
It makes no difference what the weather;
Friendship eternal we found it in you,
East Paterson High School our own.
We will be proud to shout from every rafter,
Our pledge will stand forever after,
Long will we cherish the memories of you,
East Paterson High School our own.
We will share your triumphs,
Let our laughter linger on,
Will boast your honors proudly,
For our spirit reflects all your glory.
Fun and laughter in our school days,
But still our grades were worthy of praise,
We will remember your guidance, your care,
East Paterson High School our own.

"The world is round and the place which may seem like the end may also be only the beginning".

A day in the life of a teacher

Epilogue

The corridors we walked during our brief high school years today seem silent and void. The time for reminiscing and reflecting on the goals we sought as students soon will be realized in our future aspirations as adults. So, with a renewed confidence, we now abdicate our throne of seniority to our heirs, the future generations of seniors. Our closing comment is, then, the sincere desire that each succeeding graduating class may be inspired to achieve greater goals than those for which we have strived.

It is inevitable that each of us must serve the bonds of dependency and transfer our aims toward our separate endeavors. Strewn along the passageways of life will be numerous obstacles which will pose a challenge to each of us as adults. If, at times, someone feels a moment of personal weakness or indecision, let him seek inspiration from the unique spirit of perseverance that dominated the soul of the Class '68. Instilled with this relentless determination, he will be able to profit from and thereby, surpass past achievements. Therefore, never allow success to degenerate into stagnancy, nor allow defeat to deteriorate into despair.
